

Proud of our First Responders....

Jack McCourt – September 2020

In this time of desperation
With the daily risks we face
When the life we knew keeps changing
And we struggle to keep pace
We can thank our lucky stars
For those that lead the way
Our heroes that protect us
And perform great works each day.....

And we're Proud of our First Responders

Who look fear square in the eye,
EMTs, doctors and nurses
Who refuse to let us die
They simply gear up, overcome adversity
Through relentless stress and challenges
They fight to save you and me

This virus arrived onshore
Travelling from a market in China
And though we secured our borders early
The virus came on plane and cruise liner
We weren't prepared for its devastation
And its utter lethality
But we pulled together quickly
Choosing a strong mentality

And we're Proud of our First Responders

The Police who secure our towns
Who serve and protect us day-to-day
Risking their lives while making rounds
Joined by Firefighters, National Guard
Demonstrating leadership unceasingly
Our lives always secure in their hands
Americans serving others selflessly.
