Naval Academy Foreign Affairs Conference
Established in 1960, the Naval Academy Foreign Affairs conference draws undergraduate participants from more than 30 countries to the Academy each year to discuss emerging issues in global affairs. In addition to large keynote addresses, the Conference, which is supported by philanthropic gifts, features small breakout discussions where participants have the opportunity to debate topics among themselves and with leaders such as MajGen Charles F. Bolden Jr. '68, USMC (Ret.) (right).

A NEW ERA

U.S. NAVAL ACADEMY FOUNDATION MARKS CAMPAIGN LAUNCH IN 2018

Since 2012, a core group of lead donors and dedicated volunteers has been devoting their time, energy and personal generosity in support of a groundbreaking campaign committed to supporting the Naval Academy, its Strategic Plan 2020 and the vital priorities outlined in that document.

In 2018, this effort, Called to Serve, Daring to Lead: The Naval Academy Campaign, celebrated its public launch, reaching out to the entire alumni and friend community and inviting them to participate in an initiative with the power to change the course of history not only for the Academy, but for the safety and security of our nation and the world.

It's a tall order, and an ambitious goal. Through March 2019, the campaign had raised more than $386 million, bolstered by the gifts received in calendar year 2018 and recognized in this report: $59.4 million in overall contributions and $10.9 million to the unrestricted Naval Academy Fund.

"2018 stands as a milestone year for Naval Academy philanthropy," said Byron F. Marchant '78, president and CEO of the Naval Academy Alumni Association and Foundation. "In addition to the contributions made in 2018, our alumni, parents and friends accepted the challenges established by Called to Serve, Daring to Lead and I am confident their commitment and generosity will continue to sustain and enhance our support for the Academy as we pursue our future goals through the end of the campaign in Fall 2020."

The success of Called to Serve, Daring to Lead coincided with continued achievements on the Yard and throughout the Naval Academy Alumni Association's programs and services.

- The Naval Academy recorded its 52nd Rhodes Scholar, along with Marshall, Gates Cambridge, Truman, Schwarzman and Knight-Hennessy Scholars.
- The Academy's Cyber Operations program received ABET accreditation.
- Some 300 midshipmen experienced long and short-term international study in 30 different countries.
- The Naval Academy Alumni Association welcomed a new shared interest group, the Naval Academy Minority Association, and honored its first female Distinguished Graduate, Captain Wendy B. Lawrence '81, USN (Ret.).
- The Alumni Association and Foundation launched a fully revamped website focused on user experiences, access to volunteer tools and ease of event registration, online donations and more.
- The Alumni Mentoring Program, sponsored by the Class of 1969, continued to grow, up to nearly 3,700 participants from 2,700 a year ago.

Each of these developments helped foster a sense of spirit and energy and offered the campaign tremendous momentum. What's more, the impact of the early investment in Called to Serve, Daring to Lead has led to a visible impact on the Yard as well as a tangible, lasting enrichment of the midshipman experience. To name just a few examples:

- The rise of Hopper Hall, whose labs, classrooms and other features, including its Sensitive Compartmented Information Facility, will be outfitted with private funds. Ahead of Hopper Hall's opening, the Center for Cyber Security Studies has been growing rapidly, as has the cyber operations major, which graduated its first 27 midshipmen in 2016 and has more than 110 majors in the Class of 2021, helping to drive service assignment statistics in the cyber warfare and information professional communities.
- The continued development of Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium as a premier intercollegiate athletics venue, enhanced by the creation of Akerson Tower and Yeager and Minter Pavilions
- The establishment of professorships including the Robert and Mary M. Looker Distinguished Visiting Professor in Cyber Security Studies, the Maryellen and Richard L. Keyser Distinguished Visiting Professor in Cyber Security Studies and the Tig H. Krekel Class of '75 Distinguished Chair in Space Science
- The transformation and expansion of Ricketts Hall into the Physical Mission Center, supported by a lead gift from J. Ronald Terwilliger '63
- The continued expansion of Summer STEM opportunities and Admissions Outreach events to students from underrepresented communities and backgrounds
- Investment in Stockdale Center personnel and programs, including privately funded leadership positions such as the Timothy and Susanne Sullivan Director of Influencer Development and the Director of Leadership Innovation at the Boeing Leadership Innovation Laboratory
- Growth of experiential leadership programs including the Class of 1977 Gettysburg Leadership Encounter

- Continued investment in high-profile conferences including the Naval Academy Foreign Affairs Conference, Naval Academy Leadership Conference and McCain Conference
- Added Midshipman Activities Fund revenue to support activities including 14 club sports and more than 100 extracurricular activities, all with related midshipman leadership opportunities
- The restoration of the bronze doors of the Naval Academy Chapel, part of the Class of 1968's $1.893 million 50th Reunion Gift

The campaign's success to date and the evolving needs and objectives of the Academy have inspired the Foundation and its leaders to aim for additional, specific resources for certain key priorities, including international programs, admissions outreach, athletic excellence and experiential leadership development.

The greatest need and the greatest opportunity for most alumni to make an impact today are in two key areas: the unrestricted Naval Academy Fund, and the future Alumni Association and Foundation Center.

"The Naval Academy Fund is the heart and soul of Naval Academy fundraising," said Daniel F. Akerson '70, chairman of the Naval Academy Foundation Board of Directors, one of the Naval Academy Fund's greatest supporters and most vocal champions. "In addition to providing an ongoing stream of reliable, critical resources for the Superintendent to address emerging needs at the Academy and to augment Alumni Association programs and services, the Naval Academy Fund also provides 100 percent of the Naval Academy Foundation's operating resources. The Foundation doesn't depend on a penny of government funding, and has been able to raise at least $30 million—and often much more—in contributions in support of the Academy in each of the past four years. That means the vast majority of the philanthropic impact on the Yard can be traced in large measure to Naval Academy Fund gifts. That's a pretty remarkable return on investment, and it's an investment those of us who believe in the Academy and its mission need to keep making, year after year."

U.S. Naval Academy Alumni Association and Foundation Center expected 2020.

The future Alumni Association and Foundation Center, planned for the far end of King George Street across from Max Bishop Stadium, plays a similar essential role to future support of the Academy.

The Alumni Association and Foundation Center will offer premier facilities for Naval Academy alumni, parents and friends, including a physical space in which to celebrate and commemorate alumni success and leadership in civilian life in addition to military achievements, a venue in which to celebrate the Naval Academy's history of providing extraordinary leadership in military, government, corporate America and civic engagement.

What's more, by enhancing a key gateway to the City of Annapolis, the Center will offer an opportunity to improve relationships between the Alumni Association and Foundation, the City of Annapolis and the Academy. The Alumni Association and Foundation anticipates breaking ground on the project in 2020 and completion in 2022.

"Our counterparts at the United States Military Academy and United States Air Force Academy have had exceptional, purpose-built facilities for many years," said Admiral Samuel J. Locklear III '77, USN (Ret.), chairman of the Naval Academy Alumni Association Board of Trustees. "The new, consolidated Center will encourage synergy and enterprise-wide initiative that will allow the Alumni Association and Foundation to realize their dual missions in support of the Academy, the Brigade of Midshipmen and the global alumni community. It will offer a significant expansion of space to host alumni and parent events, reunions, weddings and informal gatherings both within its walls and outdoors along the banks of College Creek. As an added bonus, it will feature approximately 115 offstreet parking spaces, a tremendous amenity in a community like Annapolis. It's a project all alumni can benefit from and one we can all take pride in supporting."

Plans will unfold later for how individual, class and other support for the Alumni Association and Foundation Center will be recognized.

"We've had a great deal to celebrate this year thanks to the extraordinary generosity of our alumni, parents and friends," said Marchant. "But perhaps the greatest takeaway of this extraordinary year is that we have just barely begun to test the limits of our potential in terms of supporting the Academy and its mission. We look forward to realizing that potential through the end of the campaign in Fall 2020."

LETTER FROM THE CHAIRMEN

By Daniel F. Akerson and Admiral Samuel J. Locklear III

On behalf of the entire U.S. Naval Academy Alumni Association and Foundation, we are delighted to present the 2018 Report of Donors and express our sincere personal thanks for the extraordinary generosity that generated more than $59.4 million in new contributions in support of the Naval Academy last calendar year.

In 2018, we marked the public launch of Called to Serve, Daring to Lead: The Naval Academy Campaign following a quiet phase effort dating back to 2012. The public phase opened up the campaign and its mission to our entire alumni, parent and friend community, and its success to date has depended on the volunteer leaders among our Naval Academy family who have demonstrated their personal commitment to our mission. Together, we will work to fulfill the campaign's future goals and potential.

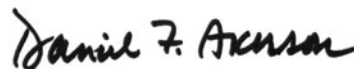

The campaign will continue through Fall 2020 and we hope to raise significant additional funds for a variety of remaining key Naval Academy priorities. The priorities of Called to Serve, Daring to Lead—cyber programs, international experiences, ethical leadership development, project-based learning, the physical mission—are integral to midshipman development. We are witnessing the return on our deepened investment in these and other areas already, and we will long into the future.

The impact of your generosity to date can be seen across the Yard in brick and mortar, throughout every aspect of the midshipman experience and in all corners of the world in our improved alumni programs and services. We're witnessing the rapid rise of Hopper Hall and the Physical Mission Center, enjoying continued improvements at Navy-Marine Corps Memorial Stadium and looking forward to the future Alumni Association and Foundation Center. Some 300 midshipmen are completing international experiences in 30 countries each year. Others achieve recognition in distinguished international scholarships or benefit from remarkable leadership opportunities in conferences, club sports and extracurricular activities. Stockdale Center personnel and programs benefit from continued stability and enhanced resources. All of these owe their current strength and opportunity for future enhancement at least in part to your support for this campaign.

We are sincerely grateful for the support and collaboration of our vice chairs, Admiral Michael G. Mullen '68, USN (Ret.), and Eric Grubman '80 on the Board of Directors and Major General Leo Williams '70, USMCR (Ret.), on the Board of Trustees as well as Rear Admiral Thomas C. Lynch '64, USN (Ret.), chairman of Athletic and Scholarship Programs, which marks its 75th anniversary this year. We are also profoundly thankful for all you have done for the Alumni Association and Foundation and for the Academy to date, and look forward to all our extraordinary shared successes in the months ahead.

Sincerely,

Daniel F. Akerson '70

“The Stockdale Center is almost exclusively driven by philanthropic giving. Very little in our budget is appropriated. Stakeholders, alumni especially, are enabling the Stockdale Center. It’s grown the way it has over the past 20 years based on class giving and individual donors—now we’re starting to see corporate giving and family foundations step up.”

LIFETIME GIVING UNRESTRICTED

Those who have served as leadership donors in lifetime unrestricted giving have made particularly distinctive commitments in support of the Academy. Naval Academy Fund gifts are profoundly impactful contributions that ultimately serve to advance all of the Academy's strategic priorities, and they are typically unsung, without the named positions or recognition in bricks and mortar that accompany many other gifts. In 2016, the Naval Academy Foundation began honoring those who have made Naval Academy Fund gifts of $1 million or more in a new display in the Armel-Leftwich Visitor Center, while those who have made unrestricted gifts of $100,000 or more are recognized below.

“Our biggest military challenges today: cybersecurity, nuclear energy, small unit combat and counterintelligence—are highly technical, but they also require a commitment of character and leadership that the Academy should be uniquely qualified to provide. If we have a student for four years at the Academy, we should know who they are and what they stand for. Someone from another institution might be equally as good, but we haven’t had four years to test them and encourage them in those character issues. So I think the need for the Academy is stronger than ever, and the mission is greater than ever.”

CONSECUTIVE-YEAR GIVING

A loyal and growing group of alumni, parents and other friends of the Academy have made a gift through the Foundation for at least 25 years. These donors have played a critical role in shaping the culture of philanthropy that helps make the achievements of today's Academy possible. We are profoundly grateful for their commitment and honored to continue to recognize them here

“Every one of us, more than once in our military careers, has gotten out of our comfort zones. Nine times out of 10, even if it resulted in initial disappointment, even initial failure, where we ended up was further than where we started. This campaign is about getting outside of our comfort zone.”

"The Academy is a great institution to learn about leadership, character, honor and other qualities I feel played an important role in the rest of my life. We are blessed to be able to support the Academy in the ways that we have. Through my various relationships with the Academy, I've had opportunities to see what really goes on there in terms of athletics, character development, leadership, academics and so on. I'm a supporter of the Superintendent's priorities through the Naval Academy Fund and believe strongly in the importance of the physical aspects of being a midshipman."

ROBERT MEANS THOMPSON SOCIETY

Planned and estate gifts in support of the Naval Academy allow alumni and other friends to make statements in support of their values and priorities that endure well beyond their own lifetimes. They also often allow donors to make larger gifts than they could otherwise. The Roberts Means Thompson Society recognizes those who have remembered the Naval Academy Foundation in their wills as well as those who have used charitable gift annuities and other vehicles to support the Academy in addition to their personal financial goals.

PARENTS

Naval Academy parents show their support for their sons and daughters in countless ways, both during their years as midshipmen, throughout their service in the Navy and Marine Corps and as they continue to navigate the personal and professional opportunities and challenges that face young leaders. These parents also show their support through their generosity to the Naval Academy and eager engagement as members of the Naval Academy community. In 2018, 1,880 Naval Academy parents made a contribution, 186 were President's Circle donors and 888 were members of the Alumni Association.

Thanks to all parents for their loyal and inspiring support.

FRIENDS

It is not necessary to attend the Naval Academy or have midshipmen in one's family to appreciate, celebrate and support the impact the Academy and its graduates have on our nation and the world. We thank all those friends of the Academy, including its faculty and staff and those of the Naval Academy Athletic Association, Naval Academy Alumni Association and Naval Academy Foundation for their support.

CORPORATIONS, FOUNDATIONS AND ORGANIZATIONS

Local and national corporations, foundations and organizations are an integral part of the Naval Academy's success. Their support, through outright gifts, gifts-in-kind and sponsorship of events makes possible a wide range of activities without which the midshipman experience would be greatly diminished. In addition to corporate supporters like Emerson Electric, which made a $500,000 gift to support international programs, leadership and athletic excellence, non-profit organizations such as the George and Carol Olmsted Foundation continue to support the Academy. The Olmsted Foundation has given more than $3 million toward international programs since 1983.

Thanks to all of the organizations below for their continued support.
